DEMOCRATIC TICKET.
For Circuit Judge,
Hon. Charles A. Hardin,
of Mercer CountyTo Ed Shatzick: We'll take that bet and you lose.

A GOOD MAN TO TIE TO

The Harrodsburg Republican says: Great credit is due our fellow citizen, Hon. Chas. A. Hardin, for his coolness and courage at Danville last Wednesday night. While attending the picture show at the opera house the film caught fire and for a short time it looked as though a holocaust was imminent. The audience became panic-stricken, and many would have been badly injured in the crash had it not been for Mr. Hardin who stood in a chair and made an appeal to the crowd to be calm as the danger was over. Mr. Lewis Wohlstein, of Harris, and Richmond Wohlstein, of this place were in attendance and said it came near being a serious affair.

A MAN.

A man that's ~~cross~~ inside and outside who neither looks up to the rich nor down on the poor, who can lose without bragging; considerate to women children and old people, who is too brave to lie, too generous to cheat, and too sensible to boast; who takes his share of the world's goods and lets other people have theirs. This is the ideal conception of a true gentleman.—Biology.

CALVIN LEE EELUM.

In memory of Calvin Lee Eelum of Garrard County. He was 21 years old the 10th February and died April the 3rd 1911. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Eelum and the grand son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Spratt, near Moreland, Ky., Lincoln county.

Gone but not forgotten.

Silently it brings before us that dear face.

We can see no more.

Oh, smile upon us from above,

As I bid to lead us through,

The walks of life that we some day may find our way to you.

Every life must have some sorrow, Over pathway shadows fall,

But beyond this fall of darkness,

God is gracious to us all.

Yet again we hope to meet them,

When the day of life is fled,

And in heaven with glory to meet them,

Where no farewell tears are shed.

Oh, it was hard to part with Calvin Lee,

Good bye bright smiles and loving ways,

And tender heart.

How oft through long, sad hours we think,

of one we loved and cherished,

We think of one who has gone to rest.

Peaceful by thy silent slumber,

Peaceful in thy grave so low,

Thou no more will join our number,

Yet again we hope to meet thee,

When the day of life is fled.

And in heaven with joy to greet thee.

Where no farewell ears are shed.

But thy memory will be cherished,

Till we see thy heavenly face de r

COMPOUND CALLOUSES

Tells Splendid Cure for Them and All Foot Troubles.

A compound calloose is the secondary stage, when it grows inward and presses on the nerves, causing intense pain. Callouses never cure themselves but always get worse, sometimes irritating the whole nervous system. The following is a most effective and speedy cure. Dissolve two tablespoonsfuls of Calocid in a basin of hot water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (This time will not give the desired results.) The soreness will disappear immediately and the callous can be easily peeled off. Repeat this for several nights. A little olive oil rubbed into skin is very beneficial.

This Calocid is a very remarkable preparation for all foot ailments. Bunions, corns and ingrowing nails get instant relief and are soon cured. Bad smelling and sore feet need but a few treatments. Calocid is no longer confined to doctors' use. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is usually enough to put the worst feet in fine condition. It will prove a blessing to persons who have been vainly trying ineffective tablets and foot powders.

BRODHEAD

William Francisco, the contractor, is putting down some nice walks and a sidewalk in front of the residence of Mr. W. C. Evans.

Horn, to the wife John Evans, a fine girl. The young gentleman who recently arrived at the home of Mr. W. C. Carter has been named Charles Hicks.

Milton Rash, aged 25, and a son of the late Will Rash, and Miss Jane Harrison, the popular and handsome daughter of Alex Harrison, aged 18, were united in the bonds of matrimony last week by Rev. A. J. Pike, in his usual impressive and happy style.

L. N. Vanhook has been quite ill of stomach trouble but is better. The aged Sam Black, who was a Union soldier, is about to lose his eyesight.

Mr. Leroy Robbins will soon leave for Northwest Texas where he goes to visit George Robbins, and it is anticipated with the country, will probably locate.

Mrs. Mary Harrison is quite ill. Both Jim Tyree and Hamp Reynolds are running gasoline grist mills and blacksmithing in connection.

J. B. Farris the merchant who sold his farm last winter to Joe McCall, has a nice ginseng garden of 5000 plants which he intends to soon sell. He will realize a neat sum for the herb.

Miss Clyde Wilmet has recovered from a severe illness.

Mrs. J. W. Tate has been to Cincinnati on a business trip.

Robert Wilmet, of Nepton, Ky., visited his mother, Mrs. M. E. Wilmet. Mrs. M. O. Holmes, of Crab Orchard, visited her friend, Mrs. J. W. Tate. Mrs. Walter Miller has returned from a pleasant visit to Williamsburg and Knoxville, also was visiting her uncle, Mr. Alfred Lease, on Copper Creek, who has been quite ill. A. M. Hatt, cashier of the Citizen's Bank accompanied his mother to Richmond where she goes to take medical treatment. Mr. Bane Carson is now assistant cashier.

Hyman Kahn, representing L. Moses & Co., gents tailors, was here Thursday out of Louisville.

Mrs. James Owens who was seriously injured recently, by jumping from buggy, is able to be out again, much to the surprise of everyone and the delight of her many friends.

Mrs. Serena Owens and son, Ed, will leave next week to visit their daughter and sister, Mrs. Frank Sutton, in Louisville.

SPRING LOW CUTS.

We want to put on your feet the celebrated World's Standardized Crossett the one that lasts longest, holds shape better, makes you look dressed up and down. I have them in Grey, Brown, Tan, Black and Patent Leather.

Addams, Addams, So Say We All, Gentlemen

If there a democrat out believes that if Senator McCready gets the gubernatorial nomination, the chances of his party's success will be in doubt? Is it not the part of wisdom, therefore, for him to turn to some one who can bring the people to victory? William Addams, of Harrison county, is such a candidate. Place your banner in his hands and he will give you the hope and enthusiasm that must stand us all winners. A few weeks since we were left wondering whether there were none to make an active fight to oppose S. M. McCready for the nomination, but since the many stand and eloquent statements of Mr. Addams, our doubts are at last thrown aside and hope has taken the place of our doubts in our party's success.

There are times when our darkest periods are just before the dawn, and democracy in Kentucky appears to have passed through them. From no man every one should feel, with such a man as Addams to lead, that success must surely come.

Mr. Addams has a number of relatives and friends in "Old Shelby," and, though this county is in Mr. McCready's district yet it can be turned to the Harrison county man who can lead the party triumphantly in November.

Let us stop our bickerings. Addams is a man we can unite upon, and right us all, therefore, get together and be together and be for Addams.

Let the party slogan be "party success" and Mr. Addams will be selected. He is the man of the hour, the man you want, the man you need. The man you must have.

Addams! Addams! So say we all! Addams!

Chamberlain Medicine Co.

PUTS ON UNIQUE EXHIBIT AT DES MOINES EXPOSITION.

A Des Moines daily paper has an extended write-up of the $20,000 exhibit of the Chamberlain Medicine Company, whose goods are largely sold in Lincoln county. The paper says in part:

Remedies made by one local concern penetrate the jungles of Africa even the natives of India contribute their recipe for the Chamberlain medicines. This foreign money comes to Des Moines in the shape of foreign bills of exchange. These are exhibited to the amount of $2,000 in the booth of the company which is located in the middle of the east side of the Coliseum.

There are bills of exchange shown in the booth from the following countries: Cape Colony, Dutch Guiana, Straits Settlement, Philippines, New Zealand, Ceylon, India, Australia, Panama, China, East Africa, and Rhodesia. These are displayed attractively and labeled so that the visitor at the big home products show can understand readily the extent of the outer industry.

One-half million dollars worth of business is done outside the United States each year by the Chamberlain Medicine company. This is an entire exclusive of the domestic output, which forms a lengthy story in itself.

IN THE WAKE OF THE MEASLES. The little son of Mrs. O. H. Farmer, little Billie, looks bad the measles. The result was severe and it grew worse and he could not sleep. She says: "One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound completely cured him and he has never been bothered since." Croup, whooping cough, measles, colds all yield to Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. The genuine is in the yellow packaging always. Refuse substitutes. Shanks and Tanner.

VALENTINE, WARDEN Handler AND ROSE LANE.

SYNOPSIS.

Warden Handler of Sing Sing prison and Detective George Doyle endeavor to prevail on Bill Avery, a released prisoner to search out information against a notorious "pal," a young criminal known as Jimmy Valentine. Avery refuses, and Doyle and Handler threaten to kill him. Valentine has a trick of appearing safely by the grace of grace.

Every year, Lieutenant Governor J. J. Rogers, a young woman, Rose Lane, who is a women workers in a rescue mission visit the prison.

Warden Handler hears Rose Lane sing how she was rescued from a thief on a train, and he is amazed at a coincidence. Convict Jimmy Valentine, No. 1289, is brought into the warden's office to open a safe as an object lesson to the visitors, and Rose recognizes him as the man who saved her from the thief.

Convict says we can't open the safe, snarling Handler. The Lieutenant governor and Rose talk with Valentine. Rose pleads with Gay to aid the young prisoner, who is handsome even in Sing Sing garb.

Gay promises for Rose's sake to ask the governor to pardon Valentine. A stormy interview occurs between Handler and Valentine.

Valentine waits patiently in prison for news. Finally he is pardoned and goes to Albany to thank the governor. Lieutenant Governor J. J. Rogers.

Rose, absolutely positive of her one-time rescuer's innocence, had made a proposal to her father regarding the future of Jimmy Valentine. Her father, tall, well built, with beard and brown hair streaked with outcroppings of gray, smiled indulgently over her. He had agreed on a sum comon to place Valentine in a good salaried position, unless yet he had doubts as to whether he dared to sacrifice for the ex-convict exactly the employment the girl demanded for him.

"It's no good to be shocked, dad," answered the girl. "It's true. And then he went to prison on the death rattle of a beast like that, and I'm going to make it good to him if he's a man. And he is; every drop of my blood tells me so."

"And you don't even know his name?"

"Yes, I do."

"He gave you one, I know, but even that?"

"Well, what of it? Does a name mean anything to real men and women? No. The one comes—the one in all the world—and, well—that's all there is to love."

A pause ensued. The father was first to speak.

"Do you think he knows how you feel?" he asked sympathetically.

"No, nor he never will—unless you some day believe him—worthy of me."

"You please do it!" relieved.

"I promise, dad."

"Will you wait until I see the governor, Rose? Let us go to see him and ask his opinion of the matter."

"Gladly, and he will believe in him, I know," said the girl enthusiastically.

She heard a step behind her, and she turned.

There, with his bat in his hand, well groomed and wearing a well-cut suit of brown clothes—light brown, the fashionable color—there stood Jimmy Valentine.

"Mr. Valentine!" exclaimed the girl.

"Miss Lane, how do you do?" stepping quickly forward, extending his hand.

"This is my father." She presented Valentine to Mr. Lane, who welcomed him pleasantly.

Further conversation by the three was interrupted by the entrance of Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Webster, returning from the tea room. Mr. Lane and Rose departed to go to the governor's chamber, and the two members of the Gate of Hope society and Jimmy Valentine seated themselves.

"And now, Mr. Valentine, concerning your future," began Mrs. Webster, "what do you contemplate doing?"

"Get a position."

"We have already arranged that for you, Mr. Valentine," announced Mrs. Moore complacently.

"That is very thoughtful, ladies, but."

"Mrs. Moore did not exactly convey

"No?"

"We have a choice of three positions

"One is in a grain elevator."

"Yes," smiled Valentine. "I can imagine that would be a safe place for one under suspicion of robbing a bank."

The ladies failed to detect the veiled note of sarcasm.

"The second," informed Mrs. Moore,

"is as a bookkeeper or checker in a scrap iron yard."

"Still under suspicion, I see," commented Valentine dryly.

"And the third as the first mate officer in the Gate of Hope society," Mrs. Webster proudly declared.

"Yes," agreed the other charity worker.

"Treasurer?" the ex-convict queried significantly.

"No; secretary?" both the ladies cried simultaneously.

"I hold that honored position now," resumed Mrs. Moore, "but were you

Hartford "bulls" had broken up that midnight surprise party in the vaults of the Fifth National bank.

Hardly believing his ears, hardly daring to turn, yet he did turn, and he saw, crouching half behind one of the red velvet portieres of one of the hotel parlor entrances, the figure of Red—the face and the brick red hair of Red Flanagan, his old time coworker.

CHAPTER VII.

JIMMY VALENTINE slowly recovered from the shock he experienced at beholding before him the man who had in the old days been his accomplice in many questionable adventures. No; he had concluded wrongly. No; he was not yet free from all the associations of the years past those years which he was endeavoring to forget.

"Hello, Red," he finally addressed Flanagan. "Come out from behind the curtain. The coast is clear for you. How did you know I was here?"

Red came forth. "Oh, leave it to me, Jimmy, to keep track of an old pal." He held out his hand, which Valentine listlessly shook.

Red could not understand his former companion's indifferent manner.

"What's wrong?" he asked.

"Nothing."

"Aw, cut it out. Something's got you guessin', an' we don't try to kid me."

The released convict looked meditatively at Red. Then he spoke.

"Red, did you ever do a bit?"

"Sure—Joliet."

"And you have been in one of those rotten holes and still think it's a good game?"

"You've weakened up?" sneered Red.

"I've turned square."

"You're crazy."

"No; it's only the man who thinks he can beat the law who's crazy," said Valentine.

"You'd a won out if it hadn't been for that Cotton, who blew on you because you beat him out of a dame."

Valentine turned and clutched him by the arm.

"You int, don't you ever speak of her again or I'll murder you." He threw Red roughly away from him.

"Now, get out of here and forget you know me."

"Good God, Jimmy!" exclaimed the other. "I wouldn't say anything to hurt your feelings. Why, I'd do anything for you; I'd do a done bit if I could have. Why, I'd go to hell for you."

"Will you turn square with me? That's all I want of you now. Let's you and I start now and from this minute on go square. If we starve in the streets. Will you do that, Red?" Valentine spoke in intense earnestness.

Red hesitated. "One job to get a smoke and I'll go you," he said eagerly.

Valentine appreciated the characteristic unwillingness of Red to leave his lifelong vocation—that of rifling strong boxes and safes deemed by their manufacturers to be "fire and burglar-proof." True, the safes were sometimes foiled by the thicknesses of metal and asbestos, but rarely had Red Flanagan been foiled by mere human metal or time locks—rarely, indeed, when accompanied by No. 1289, the man who, as Warden Handler described him, opened safes solely by the sense of touch. Valentine knew the bold that the lawless life he, too, had followed invariably secured on its votaries, and he was not surprised when Red hesitated to leave it for the dubious rewards of "going straight."

"No; please do not say that," he protested elaborately. "No, no. I refuse the positions you offer me because I fear the world would misunderstand."

"What do you mean?" asked one of the ladies.

"Oh, you see," went on Valentine whimsically, "if I accepted help from you ladies the world might say that you—or you were in love with me."

"Oh-h-h!" ejaculated the astonished ladies.

"Let the world say what it dare!" proclaimed the pedantic little Mrs. Moore, lifting her chin defiantly.

"And no goodby, my dear ladies," said Valentine, bowing almost to the floor.

With anger in their glance and their walk, chins and noses pointing almost toward the ceiling, the two members of the Gate of Hope society stalked out of the hotel parlor.

Jimmy Valentine, chuckling in his amusement, sank into a chair to await the return of Miss Lane and her father.

Miss Lane—Rose Lane—the girl who had saved him from the horrors of that "bit of ten" at Sing Sing. How beautiful she was, he murmured. She had a heart. And she cared something for No. 1289; that was apparent. Just how much did she care? Just what did she care? If a man lived straight he might in time win such a girl for his own. Yes; that was life. And Jimmy Valentine now had his chance to "go straight," he reasoned. Stranger things had happened. The girl had revealed already, had she not, that she knew a prison sentence could not kill the good in a man if a single germ of it yet lingered in him? The old life was behind him now. The future gleamed bright and beckoned him on. Never again would he—

"Aw, don't kid yourself," warned Red. "The copper'll let you be square if you're a stool pigeon, if you lip off old pals. No other way."

"Absurd! How, for instance, could they 'do' me?"

"Absurd, eh? What about Kid Steele? He turned square, but he wouldn't deal, and job after job they threw him out of till he was hungry in the street. Then a copper offered to stake him to a feed if he'd 'turn up' an old pal. And he murdered the cop on the spot, and now he's doing life. Turn square, eh? That means he's a stool or a bum in our game."

Red raised his bands protestingly and turned his face away from Valentine.

"Jimmy! Jimmy!" A harsh whisper blessed his way into his ears.

COW-EASE RELIEVES CATTLE and HORSES FROM FLIES.

A liquid preparation carefully compounded from non-poisonous materials. It is of the right consistency for applying with a sprayer, and it will not burn up the hair or blister the skin.

Every dairyman and every owner of livestock should use COW-EASE during the summer season. Its use is a humane act, and it also saves money for the stock owner, as a herd of milk cows that are sprayed regularly through the summer months will yield on the average from 10 to 20 percent more milk than they would if COW-EASE was not applied.

In the case of horses, a mettlesome horse will lose flesh in fly time, whereas if he is sprayed with COW-EASE before driving, he will keep in good condition.
